There are few greater investments parents can make in their family than sitting down together and sharing a meal. Let’s bring back this lost tradition to Utah homes, and reap all the known benefits:

Children who participate in consistent family mealtimes:

• Eat an overall healthier diet
• Consume more fruits and vegetables
• Maintain healthy body weights
• Perform better academically
• Develop larger vocabularies

These same children are also less likely to:

• Engage in risky behaviors including tobacco, drug, and alcohol use
• Struggle with disordered eating
• Experience depression or low self-esteem

Parents who engage in family mealtimes:

• Have overall healthier diets
• Enjoy strengthened family bonds
• Spend less money on food by eating at home more frequently
• Are able to role model healthy eating habits
While some of the benefits of family mealtime are more significant for families who eat three or more meals together weekly, adding just one mealtime to your routine is a great place to start (Pediatrics 2011). Remember, family mealtime is not only for dinner – it can be whichever meal works best for your family’s schedule.

Follow these helpful tips to make family mealtime more realistic and enjoyable:

- Plan meals ahead of time.
- Schedule a set time for meals.
- Involve all family members in the meal planning, preparation, and clean-up.
- Unplug your dinner – no television, phones, or other devices allowed!
- Keep conversation at family meals positive.
A key to successful family mealtime is planning. Research has shown that cooking at home is significantly more likely if you already know what you will have for dinner.

1. Set aside time each week for menu planning. The amount of time you need will decrease as you gain practice.
2. Ask your family for ideas of what they would like to eat during the week.
3. Plan your menu around food items you already have in the pantry.
4. Choose a variety of meals including family favorites, budget stretchers, and quick fix meals.
5. Cook once, eat twice.
6. Plan to use your leftovers.
7. Picture USDA’s MyPlate as you plan each meal. See page 36 for more details.
8. Have your local store circulars available. Take advantage of those sales!
9. Create a thorough shopping list.
10. Keep it simple! Successful family meals don’t have to be gourmet; they just have to be a time together.

Quick Tips

Tired of planning a menu every week?
Try planning a 2-4 week cycle menu. Choose meals for 2-4 weeks and then repeat once the cycle is over. Change cycle menus with the seasons to take advantage of local produce.

Bored of the same old meals?
Add some theme nights to your week. Taco Tuesdays, Breakfast for Dinner Thursdays, or Sandwich Saturdays are fun for the whole family. Let kids choose a theme and then make some table decorations for added entertainment.
Involving children in meal planning and cooking at a young age is a great way to instill a love for delicious, homemade food! Here are some ideas on how to include kids of all ages in the kitchen. Remember to choose age appropriate jobs and keep safety in mind at all times.
| Color coordinate fruits and vegetables | Help make a list of meals they like | Look up three new recipes on social media |
| Circle foods they would like in the store advertisements | Look at USDA’s MyPlate diagram and come up with one meal following the diagram | Create a 3-day menu using USDA’s MyPlate as a reference for a complete meal |
| Help cut coupons | Choose fruits and vegetables to put on the side of the main courses | |
| Choose one meal they would like | |

| Point out fruits and vegetables from the grocery list | Read the list to parent and cross the items off as they are put in the cart | Take a portion of the list and retrieve those items |
| Choose a new fruit or vegetable to try | Choose a new fruit or vegetable to try | If old enough to drive, do a small grocery trip on own |
| |

| Pour premeasured items into bowl to mix up | Measure ingredients and put them together with parent’s help | Run the show as head chef! Put together a full meal and recruit family members to help as needed |
| Tear up lettuce for a salad | Toss a salad | |
| Rinse off fruits and vegetables | Knead dough | |
| | Put together sandwiches | |

- 1/4 cup onion, chopped
- 2 garlic cloves, minced
- 1 tsp. thyme

FOOD SENSE TESTIMONIALS

“A father related that when he last had his children, he made meals for them at home instead of going out, or having the same old standbys. He used some of the recipes from the Food Sense classes at the local food bank. The kids were excited that dad cooked for them and they ate a home cooked meal together. He was excited because the kids liked it and it brought them closer together.”

- Food Sense Educator

“Doing planning and shopping lists has helped me stay within my budget with my food stamps, but the best part is that for the first time, I always know what I am making for dinner and we are eating as a family.”

- Food Sense Participant

“You know I am the champion of family dinner. There isn’t anything that I think it can’t do. So I think it is worth the extra “trouble” to do it. If there was a magic solution out there that could make us healthier, happier, richer...you know we would all be doing it. I really truly think that thing is family dinner.”

- Kerry Garvin, Food Sense Blogger

“We enjoy family dinner time as a way to share the good and the difficult parts of our day. We are able to connect as a family at least this one time a day. We make it a priority and look forward to a meal together.”
